

Kimberly needed a resume that would showcase her ability to think strategically as well as creatively.

By creating a resume that not only showcased one of her designs to promote her creative talent but by implementing a strategy/design that required some 'architecture' planning, we were able to project an image of someone who is well balanced (creative and strategic).

The design connects all the areas of her career to symbolize how she considers all needs/aspects in her process to design a space.

Additionally, the objects beneath each section are to mimic a book support/shelves.

The social media icons have not been linked to protect client identity. However, the reason they were included in resume is to convey the client has sales and marketing skills, which make her an even more rounded candidate.

By choosing a landscape format, we were shooting to exude originality and a superior ability to design space from a fresh perspective.
